Annual consumer price inflation cooled to 7.5% in September from 7.6% in August, which was slightly better than economists expected. Food and non-alcoholic beverage prices increased to 11.9% in September, with the annual increase in bread and cereal prices reaching a 13-year high. There were also other worrying prices hikes, including for clothing and personal care products.

HEADLINE CPI: The CPI calculates the cost to purchase a fixed basket of goods as a way of determining how much inflation is occurring in the broad economy. The CPI uses a base year and indexes current year prices based on the base year's values.

CORE CPI: The headline figure is not adjusted for seasonality or for the often volatile elements of food and energy prices, which are removed in the Core CPI.
